

Beginning Writing - Short Writing Assignments

These short writing topics are designed for lower level classes and give students an opportunity to write about a number of basic subjects including: studies, hobbies, travel, likes and dislikes, vacations, brief job descriptions, etc.

Look at the example of a short writing below about a Great City.

A Great City

This is part of a description about New York. Read it and respond to the question.

New York is an interesting city with many things to discover. There are 7 million people who live in New York. The winters are very cold and the summers are very hot. You can find any type of food you may want; Italian food, Greek food, French food, Mexican food, and, of course, American food. There are many theaters in New York.

You can see the whole lesson from your teacher, please ask them to send it to you before the class.
