

Grammar Lesson : Giving Advise

Have yo heard of unsolicited advises? Are you a kind of friend who just listen and nod? Or a you telling your friend what to do?

Well, it doesn't matter now! English speakers like to give advice (even when no one asks us for it) – that's probably why we have so many ways of doing it. Take a look at the following phrases used in English to give advice (note the construction used afterwards):

You can see the whole lesson from your teacher, please ask them to send it to you before the class.
