

“80- Year-Old Woman Fights Rat”

BRUSSELS, BELGIUM What is the most frightening experience you have ever had? An 80-year-old shopper in Brussels got the shock of her life recently as she was shopping at a large supermarket in her neighborhood.

The supermarket was having an annoying problem with a large rat. For the last month the workers had chased the rat through the store, trying their best to catch it. They put out poison. They also put cheese in traps. But neither the poison nor the traps worked. The clever rat simply ate the cheese and kept on avoiding the workers.

The one day the unsuspecting woman came into the supermarket. As she picked up a package of cheese, she felt a sharp pain in her right hand. She looked down, horrified to see a nasty rat. “It was as big as my hand and hanging on my finger,” the woman told a local newspaper. The rat was trying to steal her cheese. She bravely pulled the rat off with her left hand and started banging it on the floor. “The animal was on the floor, knocked completely unconscious,” said the proud woman later.
