Even though it was raining hard, Kelly was enthusiastic about going out. She was going to spend the whole morning shopping with her good friend Jill, who she had not seen in a few months. When they arrived at the mall, they immediately walked into a large cosmetics shop and began perusing a large collection of lipstick. Most of the products were very expensive and Kelly decided that she would just look around. When she looked over at her friend Jill, she could not believe her eyes. Jill had just finished stuffing around a dozen lipstick containers into her purse and was now quickly zipping it shut. When she saw Kelly gazing at her she smiled and put a finger to her lips...
